RCI'S INITIATIVES

NATIONAL BRIDGE COURSE

Prior to independence, welfare services, particularly for the disabled, were being provided by voluntary agencies mostly in metropolitan centres with philanthropic and service motivation. This NGO movement gradually spread to medium towns. These agencies largely developed with charismatic dynamism of individual personalities rather than organised professional groups. Their efforts that were commendable rarely touched rural areas. A large number of committed social workers with very high degree of motivation joined these agencies to run social services. They were mostly honorary workers and sometimes with nominal honorarium.

As the demand for services increased, NGOs gradually began recruiting part time/full time workers for teaching, institutional care and other areas of work where professional training was required. In view of limited resources available to them, NGOs were not able to offer good salaries comparable with the government or private corporate sector for trained professionals. However, over the years, they gained experience in teaching. They enriched the teaching with their constant exposure to the field of rehabilitation programmes. Hence, the training programmes of a large number of institutions were being managed with teachers/instructors with low or no professional qualifications.

Since the Third Plan onwards, the Government of India and State Governments realised the importance of NGOs for implementation of welfare schemes, particularly for the disabled, where a very high degree of commitment would be needed. The Government felt that voluntary agencies should be given financial assistance to enable them to strengthen, professionalise and expand their services. For this purpose, Central and State Governments both formulated grant-in-aid schemes for NGOs in their Plans.

Need for the Course

In view of the major expansion of welfare services during the period 1970–99, the demand for training institutions and trained personnel, increased tremendously. In order to meet this demand, NGO institutions and trained personnel, increased tremendously. For meeting this demand, NGO institutions have come up all over the country. The Government of India felt that the quality of training and delivery of services have to be improved to meet the aspirations of the disabled. Rehabilitation of the disabled has been drawing the attention of the Government of India since 1981 (International Year of the Disabled). It was felt that the current training programmes in the field of handicapped are isolated and adhoc in nature with no standard syllabi. Moreover, there was no uniformity in the teaching curriculum run by various institutions at the under-graduate, graduate and post-graduate levels. It was therefore, decided by the Government of India, in 1986, to set up Rehabilitation Council which would be responsible for regulating training policies and programmes in the area of disability management. Later on the Council was given statutory status by an Act of the Parliament in 1992 and the Rehabilitation Council of India came into being in June 1993.

RCI has prescribed norms for starting rehabilitation professional courses. One of the norms stipulates that “the training institute should adopt the standards of staff, space and equipment as recommended by the Rehabilitation Council of India and give an undertaking for their implementation within the stipulated period.” In 1998, a large number of voluntary agencies expressed their apprehension about the Rehabilitation Council of India Act’s provision that a person delivering rehabilitation services (especially since the time when the Act was not in existence) without possessing a recognised qualification of RCI would be prosecuted under the Act.

In pursuance of the RCI stipulations, some of the State Governments, particularly Maharashtra, insisted that the training institutions must have RCI recognised professional staff. Since a large number of teaching staff with rich experience could lose their jobs, RCI decided to give one time opportunity to all those serving people with disabilities to become eligible to register themselves with the Council by undergoing a Bridge Course. This is a unique opportunity being offered to those who have served people with disabilities with dedication for a long time but have not had an opportunity to acquire a formal qualification to register with the Council. Moreover, this was not mandatory when they started their careers in the disability and rehabilitation field. To overcome this difficulty, RCI launched a National Bridge Course Programme on 2nd October '98. Special Teachers who are working with disabled students, Instructors, Counsellors, Placement Officers, CBR Workers or any other categories of personnel within the purview of the Council working for the persons with disabilities without recognised qualification prior to the enforcement of the RCI Act in 1993, are eligible to join the Bridge Course. The main objectives of this course are: i) to train those who have had wide experience but not a recognised qualification; ii) to spread awareness of the problems and potential of people with disabilities, particularly in rural areas.

Progress of Training

The course is being conducted in 21 States through 150 institutions. They are conducting courses in all the areas of disabilities i.e. Mental Retardation (MR), Hearing Impairment (HI), Visual Impairment (VI), Locomotor Handicapped (LH) and Community Participatory Rehabilitation (CPR). So far, more than 8000 field personnel who are working in various agencies have undergone the course. By the end of April 2000, this number is expected to touch the 9000 mark.

As part of the exercise to review and upgrade the training institutions, wherever necessary, visits of expert teams are being organised. Visiting experts have been deputed to 33 institutions to study the existing organisational adequacies to implement this programme. In addition to this exercise four Regional Workshops were organised by the RCI at the Blind Peoples Association, Ahmedabad, Akshaya Pratisthan, Delhi, NIOH, Calcutta and THPI, Hyderabad to assess the progress made and to improve upon the present performance in accordance with the recommendations of the workshops.

The assessment of the course done recently by RCI shows that a sizeable number of trainees are from rural areas and small towns. Besides, more than 45% of the trainees are teachers and Special Educators. About 30% of them are field and social workers. A large number of women trainees are participating in the programme. Since these workers are exposed to the most recent knowledge, concepts and technologies available in the disability area in the country, they would be able to extend their services to the disabled, in a better way particularly in rural areas. Besides, the RCI maintains standard and accuracy in the Bridge Course by self-appraisal based on data relating time to time assessment and in-house study of the cases of the trainees and the institutions. The National Bridge Course is the biggest effort of its kind in the field of training and manpower development in the field of rehabilitation.

PHC MEDICAL OFFICERS' ORIENTATION PROGRAMME

India has a population of over nine hundred million and are being served by the vast health delivery network in the country. India has a sizeable number of disabled population. On the basis on conservative estimates their number comes to about 100 million. They require a large number of rehabilitation services for meeting their varied needs. The entire rehabilitation process has to be conceived holistically covering prevention, early detection, intervention, referral, rehabilitation and integration services.

Rehabilitation services in the form of prevention, early identification, intervention, referral and rehabilitation have all along been neglected and the reach of the services are scattered only in urban pockets. Their reach is not more than one per cent. Even after 50 years of development, the rehabilitation services have not reached far flung rural areas. At best they could be seen in urban fringes rather than interior rural areas. In the absence of any services, it was felt in all the forums that highest priority should be given for providing services to rural areas. At present, the Primary Health Centres (PHCs) are the only structures in the health care system which are functioning throughout the country and have the necessary infrastructure for providing services. It was felt that by sensitising the PHC Medical Officers on some of the important aspects of prevention, early detection and intervention, without adding any additional load to their working schedule they would be in a position to render valuable services for people in rural areas. Keeping the above in view, the RCI launched a National Programme for the orientation of Medical Officers numbering about 25,000 through a 3-day programme on prevention, early identification and rehabilitation of the disabled.

Need for Training

The Persons With Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995, passed by the Indian Parliament seeks, inter alia, to create a conducive environment in the country to facilitate equal participation of and giving an opportunity to the disabled to join the mainstream and contribute increasingly in the process of national building. The act also prescribes in chapter IV (d) to provide training to the staff in the Primary Health Centres (PHCs) to help create better service facilities in the country. The Primary Health Centre (PHC) network in India is largely rural-based and it is the only structure within the health services delivery mechanism, which functions throughout the nook and cranny of the country and has got necessary minimum infrastructure to provide various services for the people living in rural areas.

Hence, the Rehabilitation Council of India (RCI) felt that sensitising the Medical Officers working in the PHCs on some of the important rehabilitation, valuable services could be rendered to the people of rural areas.

Objectives of the Training Course

- (a) To orient all Medical Officers of PHCs on various types of disabilities, such as Locomotor, Speech and Hearing, Visual and Mental Retardation;
- (b) To disseminate knowledge about prevention, promotion, early identification, intervention and rehabilitation for all types of disabilities as mentioned above;
- (c) To make them aware of the existing facilities available in the states as well as in the country for the persons with disabilities so that Medical Officers can refer them for further management;
- (d) To enable Medical Officers to impart this knowledge to various multipurpose workers and other functionaries working within the community;
- (e) To enable them to provide the leadership role in making the disabled movement at grassroots level by propagating the needs and rights of the disabled; and
- (f) To sensitise Medical Officers about the general disability issues such as social legislation, human rights, gender issues and organisation of the persons with disabilities for asserting their roles, responsibilities and needs.

Present Response

The “National Programme on Orientation of Medical Officers Working in Primary Health Centres to Disability Management” which was launched on 30th of July 1999, is now being implemented through 26 agencies identified all over the country in 19 States and 1 Union Territory. As per the scheme, training is being conducted in two stages. In the first stage, Senior Professionals (Resource Person) would train Master Trainers in the field of Medical and Rehabilitation. In the second stage, Master Trainers will train the PHC Medical Officers. So far, 25 Agencies have completed Master Training Programme covering 18 States and 1 Union Territory in the country and 240 Master Trainers have been trained. The programme is undertaken with full participation of State Health Departments. State Implementation Committees to implement programme in the States under the Chairmanship of Health Secretaries have also been formally set up in almost all the States.

In the second phase training of Medical Officers working in PHCs is going on in full swing and in 95 batches about 1800 doctors have completed training. The responses from the agencies entrusted with training to the RCI indicate that the State Health Departments and also other concerned departments have extended their full co-operation and support to the programme. They are actually participating in the review of the work and the modalities for the implementation of this programme.

It is to be noted that there is considerable interest and pressure from private medical practitioners and those working in Non-Governmental Agencies to extend this programme to cover them.

Questionnaire has been framed for distribution to the Medical Officers for their assessment of the programme. RCI received filled up questionnaire from some of the agencies. The responses show that the respondents are fully satisfied with the course content. Most of them suggested that this programme should be extended from 3 to 4 or 5 days. They expressed that the course content is excellent and was well organised within the timeframe. They desire that visual material to be used in lectures and accordingly the development of slides and video cassettes on various aspects of disability and rehabilitation through co-operation of selected agencies. Other training material in printed form is also being provided to the Medical Officers.

In the North Eastern Sector only three Centres/Agencies have been identified so far in as many States. RCI has not been able to find suitable agencies having required infrastructure and expertise to conduct courses in other states. However, efforts are on to have some arrangement with the help of respective Health Secretaries to collaborate with suitable agencies of other States for undertaking training at the earliest.

In the bigger States RCI is in the process of identifying more training centres in order to expedite the pace of programme implementation. The National PHC Programme is the very first of its kind in the country imparting disability-related orientation to the PHC Medical Officers.

STANDARDISATION OF COURSES AND RECOGNITION OF INSTITUTIONS

The major statutory responsibilities of RCI are to standardise courses for the training of all professionals required in the field of disability rehabilitation and to recognise institutions offering these standardised courses. The Council has standardised 53 courses upto now and has given recognition to 123 institutions (GOs and NGOs). Some of the standardised courses are short-term in nature. However, 21 courses are being offered by various institutions on long term basis.

TEACHING LEARNING MATERIAL

The Executive Committee of the Council has decided that a uniform catalogue of Teaching Learning Material (TLM) should be prepared for each course. This was the outcome of a recently concluded workshop-cum-exhibition on TLM organised jointly by the RCI and NCERT on 24th and 25th March, 2000. The idea is to select and adapt such material as has already been developed and is appropriate and also to stimulate the development of further teaching learning material.

SPECIAL EDUCATION PROGRAMMES THROUGH DISTANCE MODE

A Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) has been signed by RCI and the Madhya Pradesh Bhoj University (MPBOU) to develop B.Ed., Diploma and Career Advancement programmes in Special Education course through the distance mode. The MPBOU will act as the main National Resource Centre for Special Education and Rehabilitation Programmes through distance mode. This is the first ever endeavour in the country to offer special education programmes through distance mode.

FELLOWSHIP AND RESEARCH SCHEMES

Scientific study of disabilities and the development of rehabilitation strategies based on the findings of many studies world over have now reached a stage of accelerated growth. This is the case throughout the world and more particularly, the developing countries where scientific approach of rehabilitation of the disabled is hardly three decades old. In India, considerable advance has been made in adopting and evolving new strategies for rehabilitation of the disabled. But still a lot remains to be learnt from the strategies and practices obtaining in other countries, particularly the developing countries. There is a lot to be gained by the exchange of ideas and knowledge through discussions and consultations between people working in India in the field and in other countries, particularly the developing countries.

A scheme of Overseas Fellowship or International Fellowships has been instituted which will facilitate scholars from other countries to visit India and have discussions with Indian professionals and vice-versa. Indian professionals may also be encouraged to visit other countries, make observations and exchange ideas, thereby becoming enriched in their knowledge and skills.

The Council is planning to introduce RCI Fellowship Scheme to enable academicians and practitioners both from India and abroad to undertake short-term training/study programmes in the field of specialisation of rehabilitation to enrich their knowledge, acquire skills or undertake a short-term research project.

The RCI would also consider providing grant-in-aid for sponsoring research proposals on any significant theme oriented towards the welfare, empowerment and rehabilitation of the disabled persons.

RCI WEBSITE

Rehabilitation Council of India proudly launched website (www.rehabcouncil.org) in pursuit of automation and excellence for improving the quality of life of persons with disabilities on Friday, the 13th August, 1999 at RCI Office. RCI thus became the first ever national level disability and rehabilitation related institution to launch a website of its own.

INTERNET

RCI is also accessible world-wide now through the internet connection. The RCI is also planning to make appropriate use of internet for the dissemination and the retrieval of data concerning disability and rehabilitation. The e-mail of RCI is: rehabstd@nde.vsnl.net.in
